

Today, more than ever, Baker & Taylor is working for your library.

Today, librarians face greater challenges than ever before: coping with budget problems, book selection, staffing decisions, and, most importantly, servicing an increasingly sophisticated clientele.

At Baker & Taylor, we realize all of this. Today, more than ever, we are committed to working for your library.

That's why we have Jill Bartholomew. She's Manager of our Customer Relations Department at our Southeast Division, located in Commerce, Georgia.

Jill and her trained staff of library specialists are ready to work with you the moment you need them. By mail or phone, they can help you select the most appropriate services for your library, prepare an order, open an account, or set up billing procedures that fit your accounting needs.

More Services, Programs, Flexibility, and Economy.

Great discounts, the industry's largest inventories, the highest fill rates, and the most complete range of services have made Baker & Taylor the foremost book distributor to school, public and academic libraries.
